Summa, an accounting-expertise group, continues its growth

Summa, an accounting-expertise group backed by Weinberg Capital Partners' WCP#4 LBO fund, announces the integration of new firms, with three new acquisitions and three exclusive negotiations underway. Driven by an ambitious buy-and-build strategy, Summa is thereby strengthening its presence in Île-de-France and expanding into a new region: Provence-Alpes-Côte d'Azur. This strategy is backed by unitranche debt, supplemented by equity from Weinberg Capital Partners, giving Summa the resources to continue its development.

Momentum launched in 2025

In 2025, Weinberg Capital Partners announced its support for the structuring of a new player in the accounting, audit and advisory market. Chaired by Christian Vaingnedroye, Summa was formed from the merger of several independent firms.

8 firms, 17 partners

With the arrival of these new teams, Summa now brings together 8 independent firms and 17 partners. The group is thereby consolidating its presence in Île-de-France and making its first foray into the Provence-Alpes-Côte d'Azur region.

A clear ambition

Summa intends to continue this growth momentum by integrating new players in other regions.

This consolidation model directly addresses the profession's key challenges today: succession, recruitment and accelerating digital transformation. By joining Summa, accountants pool their investments and expand their expertise, while retaining autonomy in managing their own clients and teams.

New external growth transactions, financed by unitranche debt provided by Pictet and equity from Weinberg Capital Partners, will be announced in the coming months, enabling Summa to reach €30 million in consolidated revenue.

Paul Cordahi, Senior Director, and Camille Duxin, Deputy Director, state: "This announcement marks a new milestone in the structuring of the Summa group. We are exploring several projects to integrate new firms and will communicate on these operations shortly. Our goal is for the group to reach €30 million in revenue by the end of the year, and we are well on track to achieve that."

Christian Vaingnedroye, Co-founder and Chairman of Summa, adds: "We are delighted to welcome our fellow professionals, who are convinced by a model built on clear principles: taking a stake in the group's capital while remaining fully in control as entrepreneurs of their own firm — clients, teams, DNA — and gaining access to resources no independent firm could muster on its own: technology, training, expertise, investment capacity. At a time when the profession is consolidating, Summa demonstrates that a project designed by accounting professionals can combine capital ambition with fidelity to the profession. Join us at the Congrès de l'Ordre to discover our model."
